DOYLESTOWN.

It has not been many weeks since attention was directed in this column to the peculiar method of obtaining subscribers resorted to by the Doylestown Intelligencer which consisted in sending out notices to various people to the effect that the paper would be sent to them free of cost. All the publishers asked in return was that the recipient should be so kind as to take the paper from the office. This attempt to give papers away had its sequel the other day when a member of the company made affidavit as to its circulation, which, it is said, is alleged to be nearly two thousand subscribers. This demonstrates one of the weaknesses of modern journalism. The anxiety to be rated away up in the matter of circulation causes publishers, in their desire to obtain advertisers, to resort to all sorts of schemes to beat the gentleman with horns around the stump when it comes to making oath as to the subscription list. The charge is not made that the paper referred to has not the number of subscribers it claims, but if it has it is the most remarkable incident that has taken place in local journalistic circles for some years. If the paper named has the circulation it is reported to have claimed then there is an astonishing number of people who subscribe for a half dozen or more papers. It is true that many men do take a number of papers, but the great mass of newspaper readers are satisfied with one. What the advertiser wants is not a paper that is given away, but one that he knows is paid for, which is a guarantee that it is read. This modern style of circulation can only be described by one word, and that is "fake." It is on a par with the circus poster announcements that the great dailies make concerning their Sunday editions. It is the fashion to prate of the literary and scientific contributions of rare value they will contain, but when the reader gets his paper he finds a blanket sheet loaded with poor illustrations, through which he must pursue his way like a huntsman's hound in a thicket until he strikes the trail of reading matter, which plays hide and seek among the cuts, and which, when run down, is the veriest trash in most instances, ground out of an encyclopedia or the overworked brains of people who write things to order "while you wait." It may be that the give-away paper has come to stay with the advent of millionaire merchants who need them as advertising mediums, but if this is true they must have at least one distinguishing feature, and that will be the editorial columns. Therefore, in future, much of a paper's success will depend upon the man or men who write its editorials, assuming, of course, that the news features will be equally good.

The train leaving Doylestown at 11.22 on Saturday morning was ditched near Colmar in a fashion that made the escape of the passengers and crew rather remarkable. The tracks spread while the train was going at a high speed, the locomotive running backward. The train consisted of two passenger cars, which were turned over in the ditch. Only two men were seriously hurt, I. C. Rosenberger, of Colmar, and Conductor Arnwine, of Doylestown, who was returning to duty at the time. Rosenberger was quite severely hurt, sustaining concussion of the spine, and Arnwine was badly cut about the face. The rest of the passengers, numbering five people, and members of the crew were more or less bruised, but were not seriously injured.

The Bucks County Historical Society's meeting at Solebury Meeting House on Thursday last was a very encouraging and successful affair. Quite a number of new members were elected, many of them prominent residents of the county and Philadelphia. The most interesting paper read was one by Dr. Heilman, of the Lebanon County Historical Society, whose subject was "The Old Cider Mill." Dr. Heilman gave a very interesting description of the old cider and apple butter frolics. E. Watson Fell, of Buckingham, contributed an excellent sketch of Amos Austin Hughes, founder of the Hughesian School, of Buckingham, a free educational institution founded and endowed by Hughes before the advent of the public school. The society was much encouraged by the large attendance.

TULLYTOWN.

A feud between two Italian families of this borough resulted in a shooting affray last Friday morning. The trouble was occasioned by the attempt of William Zazzo to take possession of two building lots which he had recently purchased from Dr. William Tallman, but which were under cultivation, having been previously leased by Louie Izzo. Victorio Martino, wife of Izzo, protested against the attempt of the Zazzos to take possession. A melee ensued, and Victoria Martino was shot twice by James, son of William Zazzo. She was sent to St. Francis' Hospital, at Trenton, where she now lies in a critical condition. James is still at large, having had a start of three hours before the Constable was aware of the trouble. Another son, together with the father, mother and sister of the missing man were placed under arrest. The hearing took place before 'Squire Wagenknight, who discharged all but William Zazzo, who, it was alleged, had attempted to strike the woman with a hatchet. He was committed to Doylestown to await the result of the woman's injuries. James Zazzo, who did the shooting, is a boy of about eighteen, and has hitherto borne a good character. While he is still at large it is believed that he will be captured within the next week should he not give himself up in the meantime.

As the active preparations for the Red Men's entertainment next Saturday evening are drawing to a close the interest of the public is manifest in the active demand for tickets to what promises to be one of the best entertainments ever given in Tullytown. In addition to the local talent the management has secured Miss Marion Berger, soprano soloist, from Philadelphia, and the Rees Quartette, Griffen and Taylor, colored sketch artists, and William Henderson, the champion buck and wing dancer of New Jersey, all of Trenton. The entertainment will close with one of Frank Dumont's farce comedies entitled "A Girl of the Century," played by the All Star Dramatic Association, of Tullytown. Mr. Dumont, as is well known, is the manager of the Carncross Minstrels, of Philadelphia, and the author of many burlesques and comedies which have appeared at the famous Eleventh Street Opera House. This fact is sufficient to recommend the play to every one. A full house is anticipated and the performance will begin at 8 p. m., sharp.

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influences the health of children comes from some derangement or disease of the distinctly feminine organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure troubles of this nature. It should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains of childbirth and insures the health of both mother and child.

"JUST DRAGGING AROUND."

How many thousands of women understand the sad and pitiful meaning of that simple phrase: "Just dragging around." Women everywhere who feel that they have a work and a mission of womanhood to accomplish in this world will appreciate instantly the disheartened spirit of Mrs. Mattie Venhans, of Tioga, Hancock County, Illinois.

"I had been sick for seven years," she says; "not in bed, but just dragging myself around. At last I took three bottles of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it is impossible to describe in words the good these medicines did me. My husband says 'Golden Medical Discovery' is the best medicine he ever tried for a cough. No praise is too high for Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Another lady, Mrs R P. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio, says, "I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the finest medicine on record I have taken a number of bottles and it is the only medicine that relieved my terrible headaches."

Women who suffer should write to Dr. R V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. He will send them the best professional advice that can be had anywhere in America and entirely without charge. Neither the "Golden Medical Discovery" nor the "Favorite Prescription" contains any alcohol to inebriate or create a morbid craving for stimulants.

Every woman should own a copy of his splendid book "The Common Sense Medical Adviser" It is the grandest medical book for popular reading ever written. It contains a fund of knowledge of precious value to women. It has over a thousand pages elaborately illustrated with engravings and colored plates. The first great edition of more than half-a-million copies was sold at $1 50 each. The profit from this induced Dr. Pierce to carry out his cherished intention of issuing a free edition one copy of which in paper-covers will be sent for the bare cost of mailing, 21 one-cent stamps, or a heavier cloth-bound copy for 31 stamps.

THE NORTH AMERICAN (PHILADELPHIA)

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it prints all the news, and all the news it prints is true.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it's bright and brisk, up-to-date and vigorous, but not yellow.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because its only policy is to tell the truth. It has no covert or personal interests to promote. It serves no political ambition, no creed, no class prejudice, no mere partisan purpose.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it advocates equal taxation and battles against the existing system, which favors the rich corporation at the expense of the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer and the wage-earner.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it stands for Republican principles, and makes war upon all who, under the stolen name of Republicanism, are disloyal to those principles.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it believes manhood and not money should rule. Therefore it upholds the rights of all, as against the aggressive power of the privileged few.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because no boss, no corporation, can control one line of its space.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it is non-sectarian and broad; every party, every faith, every class, and the workingman equally with the millionaire, gets a fair hearing in its columns.

IT'S DIFFERENT, because it upholds faith in humanity, and the progress of mankind toward higher ideals, larger hopes and better living.

THURSDAY AUGUST 17, 1899.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

In accordance with a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Republican County Committee, the Republican voters of Bucks county will meet in mass convention in the Court House Park, in the borough of Doylestown, on MONDAY, the ELEVENTH day of SEPTEMBER, at 11 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the county offices. By order of JOSEPH W. SHELLY, Chairman.

Geo. W. McIntosh, } Secretaries.
J. Clinton Sellers, }

For Supreme Justice—J. Hay Brown.

A case of blind love is reported from Easton, where William H. Ham, a blind musician, and Emma Eisenacher were married.

The newspaper paragrapher who has not characterized the recently-formed ice trust as a "cold deal" or a game of "freeze-out" is away on a summer vacation.

T. Larry Eyre, of West Chester, is a candidate for State Chairman. His active service in the State Committee and familiarity with the details of the organization makes him eligible for the office.

"Dick" Quay denies the rumor that his cousin is to wed Lieutenant-Colonel Barnett. He says the story is a canard, evidently devised to serve some political end, and contains not a word of truth.

The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, of the New Court Congregational Church, London, will probably be called to the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, to succeed the late Dr. John Hall.

Postmaster Hicks is still fighting Collector of the Port Thomas in Philadelphia for State delegates. Both being officials of the United States government, and dispensers of patronage, the contest is indeed a tug of war.

The authorities of the City of Brotherly Love have been engaged in an effort to put an end to bass drum religion. A Salvation Army without a discordant brass band accompaniment would be no Salvation Army at all.

The anti Quay Republicans are extremely anxious that Barnett shall be recommended at the Harrisburg convention. In such case they will knock the props from under the arguments that have been used by the stalwarts.

Goebel, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Kentucky, carries a dirk with a five inch blade, concealed in his coat, while on his stumping tour. He is evidently on to the crowd he trains with and is not going to take any chances.

It is alleged that "Czar" Reed converted "Boss" Croker to his anti expansion ideas while both were confined upon a trans-Atlantic steamer. Reed already has a reputation for bringing an audience to his way of thinking when the avenues of escape are closed.

General John W. Schall's boom for State Treasurer seems to have collapsed entirely. Although Montgomery county's five delegates were instructed to vote for the Norristown veteran it is hardly likely that they will more than technically obey the instructions and vote for him on the first ballot.

There is such a thing as too much prosperity. Owing to the enormous demand for iron and the inability to get material with which to keep employees at work, 800 skilled mechanics have been laid off at Cramps' shipyards. The company has nine big contracts on hand with only a limited supply of material at its disposal.

Everybody will regret to learn that the health of Miss Clara Barton has been seriously impaired, and that she will probably be compelled to give up her Red Cross work in Cuba, at least for a time. Miss Barton is one of the noblest of women, and the whole civilized world will join in the hope that her health may be speedily restored.

The Philadelphia Times says: "In Bucks county, where the very old system of making nominations by mass meetings of all the voters still prevails, the Republicans will meet this year, on September 11, in the Court House Park, and there select their county ticket. Bucks is much attached to its old customs, but it is nearly time for the politicians there to resort to some other approved manner of making party tickets."

Croker has faced about and is now engaged in throwing bouquets at Col. Willie Bryan. It took ex-Governor Hogg to discover the real temper of the Tammany braves, and Chief Croker has had time to calmly think the situation over since the Texan gave his war dance in Tammany Hall, and has evidently come to the conclusion that it will be poor policy to undertake to buck the tigers—and has discovered that the easiest way out is to fall in.

The New York World, which is "agin" expansion, claims to have interviewed nearly one hundred of the Nebraska volunteers who recently returned from the Philippines, and to have obtained from the persons interviewed a practically unanimous opinion to the effect that the Filipinos are "no good." If this opinion be correct it furnishes a strong reason for continuing the present policy in the Philippines. If these people are "no good," they are certainly not fit for intelligent self-government. The New York World appears to be sawing off the limb upon which it sits.

The Doylestown Intelligencer, which professes to believe in the desirability of a non-partisan judiciary, doubles on its track and is now finding fault because the Democrats endorsed the candidacy of Judge Weiss in Dauphin County, and declares the action "an instance of a non-partisan endorsement of a judicial officer gone wrong." The Intelligencer, which is ever in a surly mood, is real mad at Judge Weiss because a recent decision was not in accordance with the findings of the editor of our Doylestown contemporary. Did it ever occur to the Intelligencer that it is barely possible that the Intelligencer has gone wrong?

SELECTION OF CANDIDATES.

Next Wednesday the convention of State delegates will assemble at Harrisburg for the purpose of nominating Republican candidates for Judges of the Supreme Court and Superior Court and State Treasurer.

For Supreme Justice there are three aspirants who have enough endorsements for the position to make them real factors in the contest—Brown, of Lancaster; Porter, of Allegheny, and Archbald, of Lackawanna.

For the Superior Court nomination Josiah Adams seems to have the call, although Dimner Beeber is occasionally mentioned in a mild way.

For the office of State Treasurer there is no announced aspirant. While Colonel Hawkins was in the Philippines it was generally accepted that he would be the candidate although it is believed he never intimated that he would accept the nomination. Since his death the organization has been loud in its praises of Lieutenant-Colonel Barnett, who is the particular choice of Attorney General Elkin. Up to the present writing Barnett has repulsed all efforts made to secure the veritication of his candidacy and it is not yet known whether he will accept or not. There is no doubt but that the commander of the "Fighting Tenth" will give his consent at what he considers the proper moment. In the meantime the organization is diplomatically engaged in stirring up enthusiasm and turning out halos to fit the returned warrior, which will be properly adjusted when he reaches the Keystone State.

Barnett will undoubtedly be the nominee of the convention, and his splendid record made in the Philippine war will elect him to the office, but with him the stalwarts desert the position they clung to in the Senatorial contest, and place at naught the arguments used concerning party principle.

There can be no fault found with Barnett as a man. He will undoubtedly conduct the office in an acceptable manner. It is not a hard place to fill. His ability is not questioned, but his make-up is that of an "insurgent."

If the convention is in search of a candidate for Supreme Justice who will dignify the office and be a credit to the bench, J. Hay Brown will be nominated. It is reported that Judge Archbald is going to make a great scramble to get the place, but it is hoped that the delegates who will assemble next Wednesday will remember that it is a Judge of the Courts and not a political boss that is to be chosen.

The United States flew to the aid of its distressed adopted child. Money, clothing and food is being sent to the flood-stricken victims in Porto Rico.

It was but a short time ago that that band of politicians known successively as "reformers," "combiners" and "insurgents" was creating a great commotion, when, according to a custom that had been established by former Legislatures, an extra force of clerks was put to work during the session of the Legislature, trusting that the appropriation for their pay would be forthcoming when the general appropriation bill would be passed. The money for their pay was included in the bill, but Governor Hastings, during a paroxysm of reform, vetoed that section of the bill, and the air was filled with insurgent yells of "padded pay rolls."

The Bloomsburg Republican, whose eye easily detects the sham, says since the Great Governor vetoed the payment of honest debts "all the little and big insurgent organs have ever since howled themselves hoarse and almost split their throats over the outrage that would have been perpetrated had not the great, honest Governor laid his restraining hand upon the Legislature. Now what are these same little and bigger organs trying to do? They cry out loudly against Secretary Greist because he is not willing to contract debts of $40,000 to pay for advertising the Constitutional amendments when no appropriation was made for this purpose. Now they want the indebtedness made and trust to future Legislatures to make the appropriation.

"In 1897 it was a grievous wrong, these organs declared, to contract a debt for extra employes for the Legislature, but now it is not wrong to contract a debt for printing Constitutional amendments for which no appropriation was made.

"We wonder whether these organs have sold out to the voting machine combination or probably Wanamaker wants the contract to supply the machines. They would cost the State about $1,000,000, a snug sum indeed to foist upon the taxpayers."

ENCOURAGING IMMIGRATION.

The Canadian Parliament recently voted an appropriation of $858,500, to be expended for the encouragement of immigration. For the preceding year the same body voted an appropriation of upwards of $250,000 for the same purpose. It seems a trifle odd to read of such action on the part of the Canadian government when we remember the trouble which we, in the United States, have had by reason of a superabundance of immigration, and the measures which we have taken of late years, to discourage rather than to encourage it. But, if we permit our memories to go back thirty or forty years, we come upon a time when it was the policy of our government and of our people to invite immigration and to welcome it as a benefit instead of an evil. We were then in somewhat the same position as Canada is in today, with a vast, undeveloped territory, far too sparsely populated in many sections, with unlimited resources awaiting the quickening touch of enterprise and industry. Since that time our population has doubled; and while we still have vast, undeveloped resources, there is at the present time no dearth of laborers, but rather a surplusage. The supply of laborers has rather more than kept pace with the demands of industry, and we have no need to import workmen from abroad to perform our labor, nor to invite foreign agriculturists to come in and develop our farming lands.

But the case is different with our Canadian brethren. The average population of Canada is somewhat less than two persons to the square mile, (including, of course, the vast unsettled areas.) The development of these areas is desirable, and it is a matter of importance to the United States as well as to Canada. Immigration, therefore, will be a distinct benefit to Canada for many years to come, provided it be of the right kind—that is, if the immigrants are possessed of the qualifications which are essential to good citizenship, chief among which are industry, honesty, thrift, and good health.

It will probably be a long time before our Canadian neighbors reach a point in their material development where they will find immigration to be an evil rather than a benefit. Hence, their efforts to secure immigration are likely to be continued, with more or less success, for some years to come.

A CONGRESSIONAL REVIEW.

R. P. Scott, of Cadiz, Ohio, who desires that the congressional nomination shall be closed out at auction, besides being a millionaire inventor, is something of a philosopher. His peculiar propositions come with a great deal of abruptness, and startle the world simply because his ideas are clothed in a strange garb. Mr. Scott says that he will give $10,000 for the nomination. In other states there are men who will give and have given more, but not possessing the frankness of the Ohioan, they do not talk widely upon the subject. In Montana two millionaires became involved in the Senatorial contest, and it is generally understood that Mr. Clark did not get the office until the amount had run up to $100,000. Mr. Scott in reviewing the situation in his home paper states:

The $10,000 bid was a simple bit of analysis, being started in analytical thought by no less a person than that incomparable woman, Miss McKinley,—the Major's sister—bred a geometrician, trained a watchmaker and graduated a contriver of devices. It was an inevitable analytical deduction from the facts confidently forced upon me by the politicians that it meant a simple auction.

Now they are all mad because I said it. The bosses have turned against me; the wire pullers deserted my fling, and my home papers will hardly so much as mention the fact that I have never been in jail without my consent; and the central committee seems to doubt my right to breathe. So, altogether, I have to take refuge in the old prayer that "if God will save me from my friends I will take care of my enemies."

An ex-Judge who told me I would have to disgorge $25,000, now says I exaggerate the evil. If there is nothing in the corruption and boss business, why did they come around and tell a poor greenhorn politician that my colored friends whose race has had the manacles of slavery cut from their ankles and the blood hounds beaten from their tracks within a generation would have to be bought up with a pint of whisky per vote?

One editor says that there is something else required besides money. I always thought so myself, but it would seem that if everybody who disagrees with us were sentenced to be hung he and I would have to hire female help to build the gallows.

Whether money corruption is so prevalent or not, does not matter so very much. There is something else worse. Perjury, which every congressman must commit, unless we court the insane belief that there ever was one elected that did not know of and consent to the expenditure of more than $523. Hypocritically shaking hands with criminals and thugs; sleeping with your enemies and stabbing your best friends may be all very good training for a congressman. It would never shorten the term of a convict.

I nearly shook the arm off of an ex-horse thief the other day to whom I had not spoken for ten years. It didn't work very well. Some how I can't rid myself of the presentment that that scoundrel considers himself above me since I am in politics. I am perfectly sure he is one of the last men I would try to buy.

In setting aside the question of reform all I desire to add is that I am not naturally a reformer. I rather lean to taking things as they are and making the best of it. I was goaded into a position on this subject by everybody taking it for granted that I would put up a lot of money regardless of conscience. The only question was how much I would pay. This in spite of the fact that they could not point to a single indication in my whole career that I would ever buy an office at any price at all.

"Dick" Croker, who has been accused of murder, and who has risen from thugdom to dictatorial management of one of the world's greatest cities, declares that President McKinley is prolonging the war in the Philippines to further his own political ends. To incur the displeasure of the scum politician is a testimonial of uprightness and probity of conduct. The same charge was made against Lincoln thirty-five years ago.

YELLOW FACTS.

It is to the discredit of the intelligence, respectability and discernment of the people that such newspapers as the New York World and Journal have each attained a circulation far exceeding those which are so far superior in every manner that there is absolutely no comparison. The New York yellow sheets are a disgrace to the nation and a libel upon the profession. The Chap Book printed some truths regarding this subject which are worthy of republication:

Several English writers of good standing, in ignorance of what the papers are really like, have done some harm to their American reputation by allowing their work to appear in the New York World and Journal.

It is therefore an act of kindly charity to warn them against the New York World and Journal. No decent man ever reads them. They circulate among people who like their murders fully illustrated, and their society scandals adorned with every suggestion of indecency. They would not for one moment be tolerated in London. Their columns are given over to multifarious appeals to pruriency. They interest themselves in the exploitation of anatomy and pathology. They publish photographs, with full explanatory descriptions, of all the diseases they can find in the New York hospitals. They send out men to lie across windowsills and peer through the blinds into the parlors of private houses. They send out women to be accosted in the streets. They despatch reporters to feign madness and so gain admission into insane asylums. They give the most explicit descriptions, with illustrations, of a hundred different ways in which murder can be committed. They ransack libraries of erotic literature when their own imaginations begin to fail. This news is always vulgar, trivial, sensational, and, as a minor detail, false. Nothing is too inane or too obscene for them to print. They are a daily libel on everybody and everything. For over a year has this contest for the primacy of the sewers raged between them. The World is experienced in every form of beastliness, but the Journal, which is edited by a Harvard graduate, has only just celebrated its first anniversary of filth.

Since the above was written the Journal has more than fulfilled its mission. It is yellower than the World. It is today the biggest and most successful representative of all that is filthy and unwholesome. As a corrupter of the masses it has no equal.

Editor Moser, of the Collegeville Independent, has issued an edict that "Foreigners disposed to disturb the public peace will either behave themselves when they visit this borough or suffer the consequences of their misbehavior." It seems that since the advent of the trolley gangs of Norristown hoodlums have been in the habit of invading the quiet precincts of Collegeville and causing considerable disturbance. Go at 'em, Brother Moser, with paste pot, scissors and pen!

A dispatch from Wichita, Kansas, says that the farmers of Oklahoma have decided to do away with horses to pull their binders and reapers. At this day the machines can be drawn so easily and horseflesh is at such a high price that it is cheaper to advertise for a gang of tramps and hire them to pull the machines during the harvest. The first work of this kind was done on the big "101" Ranch, in the northern part of the Cherokee Strip. "Joe" Miller, the man who owns the ranch, says that he has hired teams from the neighbors to help in his harvest for many years, and that this year he hired twenty tramps and the work was done at just half cost.

The poorhouses in half the counties of Kansas are empty, and still William J. Bryan hopes to be President.

Some idea of the advance in the price of iron may be obtained when it is stated that a local firm paid $21 per ton for pig, which cost a year ago, $9.75.

It is now considered that there is something wrong with France if there is no news that there has been a riot in the Chamber of Deputies, a Cabinet crisis, a President shot, or an uprising of some kind.

The Columbia, the new gem of the ocean, has proved her superiority over the old cup defender The Shamrock is on her way across the waters to try conclusions with the Yankee clipper. Americans are not accustomed to considering defeat, therefore it is expected that Lipton's boat will return as has its predecessors—defeated.

The Director of the Census has decided that tax assessors shall not be appointed census enumerators, but has not yet decided what territory shall constitute enumeration districts, and it is therefore uncertain as yet whether there will be an enumerator for each election district, for each township and ward, or how the enumeration districts will be constituted.

The esteemed Doylestown Republican declares that the Democrats are scouring the county in search of candidates to stand for the fall nominations. As there is no hope of Democratic success at the polls there has not been a candidate announced for any of the "row" offices. The Republican says:

If there is a good-natured Democrat within the borders of Bucks who thinks enough of his party to let his name go before the voters of the county as a candidate for some county office now is the time for him to speak. If he will only make his presence known he will confer an everlasting favor upon the Democratic leaders at the county seat. It doesn't make any difference this year whether the nominations belong in the lower, middle or upper, any man so minded may have a front seat in the Democratic band wagon.

Although the date for holding the County Convention is but three weeks off, there is very little activity on the part of candidates for office. B. Frank Hobensack, of Ivyland, has the nomination for Sheriff so well in hand that the contest lacks interest or excitement. Joseph G. Preston, of Solebury, is alleged to be an opponent of Mr. Hobensack. Mr. Preston has tried for the Shrievalty nomination many times, but in each case he lacked sufficient support to carry the convention. Other candidates who seem to be in the lead are Burroughs Michener for Recorder, and Edmund Wright, of Morrisville, and Adam Martin, of Warrington, for Commissioner. Frank Adams, of Neckamixon, is the only candidate, so far, for Quarter Sessions Clerk. Harry E. Hallman, of Milford, will probably capture the Orphans' Court nomination owing to the scarcity of candidates.

Would do Well to Accept.

North Wales Record.

The sudden death of Colonel Hawkins put all the calculations of politicians to one side to make room for a new search for State Treasurer. Let them come to Montgomery county and take General John W Schall, of Norristown, or Joseph Bosler, of Cheltenham, and be done with it. Can they do better? No. Then come.

Spatz is Happy Now.

Town and Country.

Representative Charles B Spatz, the editor of the Boyertown Democrat, and the father of the boy who received six dollars a week for his services as page in the State Capitol, was endorsed by the Berks Democrats this week for his course in voting for the election of a Senator in the last Legislature. Mr. Spatz is said to be supremely happy now and is casting eyes for the United States Senatorship.

Nothing But Leaves.

Norristown Herald.

Ex-Governor Pattison is mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for President. This is merely complimentary, however, as the candidate of the party will come from the West, as a matter of course. If it be not Bryan, it will be some other Democrat from that section, but the probability is that it will be Bryan. The same element will control the national convention as in 1896, and that element is not at all likely to make a selection of that kind. * * * While the Democratic party continues to adhere to the ideas which control it at the present time, it has not the slightest hope of success in state or nation.

Good Eaters In Norway.

An American in Norway writes: "I recently went to a by no means unusual sort of dinner party given by a wealthy political man, where 23 courses composed the menu. Refraining from a statement of the number of wines accompanying this feast, let me offer for contemplation the fact that services 13 and 15, each of heavy meat, were divorced by (course 14) a rich plum pudding with sweet sauce.

"Dinner began at 5 o'clock. The women left the table a little before 8. At 9 the men rejoined them for talk, music and cards, and at 11 the dining room doors again opened to reveal a supper table laden with every cold delicacy, from a bird to a caviare sandwich, calculated to tempt and restore fainting humanity."

These stones are placed at this spot, near which the aged Indian, called Tammany by the pioneers of Bucks county, was buried by the white men about the year 1750."

The Dresses and Sacques

we are selling would certainly interest those mothers who prefer the neat and dainty with which to dress the rising generation.

There was a time when ready-made dresses were not so popular as now, because of their evident crude factory-made appearance.

It's not so with the Yard selections. They're designed by a woman—an expert seamstress—made with care, and trimmed with fine, tasteful embroidery.

It's perhaps more than some will believe, but it's true, that these we're offering now are as dainty as any home-made can be. Mothers say so.

Prove it for yourself.

A 50c. Dress

is of Nainsook, yoke back and front, made of 12 clusters of 3 tucks each, with insertion; dainty Nainsook embroidery at neck and sleeves; deep hem.

At 75c.,

better Nainsook, back and front yoke of fine tucks and insertion. Nainsook embroidery at neck and sleeve.

At $1,

still finer Nainsook, back yoke all tucks; front yoke handsome Nainsook insertion and hemstitching. Ruffle of Nainsook embroidery over shoulders, Nainsook edge at neck and sleeves. Deep hem.

Others at $1.50 up to $5.

Met a feller t'other mornin'—
Most amazin' sort of cuss;
Had a cur'us style about him,
Cert'nly couldent well be wuss—
I says: "Where you hail f'm pardner?"
An' he smiled in a knowin' way,
An' replied in forren lingo:
"Porto Rico, U. S. A."

Seen a feller down on Broadway,
With a shockin' head of hair,
An' a lot o' tropic garments,
An' a most outlandish air.
"Whur's he from?" a feller shouted;
An' before we'd time to say
This yere heathen turned an' ans'r'd:
"Honeyluler, U. S. A."

Met a feller here on Olive,
With a somber-e-ro on;
Had a lot of shaggy whiskers,
Nearly all his clothes wuz gone
Stopped an' ast me fur a quar'ter;
Says: "My home is fur away."
"Whur you from?" The vermint answered:
"Santiago, U. S. A."

Seen a feller at the Southern,
With a heavy iron box,
Overcoat was lined with bearskin;
Wore a dozen pair of sox.
Sized him up to be er miner,
Judgin' by his awkward way;
Seen him write in big characters:
"Circle City, U. S A."

Seen a saddle-colored heathen,
Wearin' earrings in his nose;
Linen cuff 'round his ankles,
Most indecent lack o' clothes.
"Where'd this heathen guy here spring from?"
I inquired in lofty way;
An' he had the nerve to answer.
"From Manila, U. S. A."

Hully Gee!" says I "I never heard o'
These here cannibals before."
Air these heathens yere all voters?
Will we stan' fur enny more?
Nex' you ask a feller
Whur he's from, an' he'll say,
With a lordly kind o' flourish:
"All creation, U. S A."

The officer became involved in a personal encounter and, it is alleged, struck the woman in the mouth. Not willing to take any chances on receiving bodily harm, Mr. Rue called to his aid a stout negro, who assisted in placing hand-cuffs on the light-weight offender. Artists and photographers will unite to illustrate the deeds of the sons of the Keystone State, in this great souvenir edition. Be sure to get next Sunday's "Press."

The Italian Nuisance.

The borough authorities should adopt some means for regulation of the Italian quarters in the borough. It is an outrage upon the citizens and taxpayers of Bristol that they are compelled to submit to nuisances committed by the dirty, quarrelsome and thieving foreigners. The unfortunate feature of the matter is that the pests are located in the heart of the town and their disturbances seriously interfere with the peace of mind of decent, respectable people. Half naked children swarm the streets during the day, and boisterous carousals of the men and women make the nights hideous. The residents of Radcliffe street complain that the thieving children visit their back yards and strip the trees of fruit and remove everything of value that is portable.

A working man of the borough who had saved his money and purchased a home for himself and family on Franklin street has been forced to sacrifice his property and move from the neighborhood on account of the dago nuisance. The time has come when something should be done. Complaints are heard on all sides and threats have been made that unless the nuisance is abated removals from the borough will occur.

The Italians live like pigs, are not citizens and pay no taxes for the support of the borough, and it is unreasonable to expect that those who share the expense of maintainance shall be compelled to endure the plague. Attempts have been made to collect taxes from the Italians, but it has never proved to be successful. The best way to get rid of them is to refuse to rent them property. The least that can be done is to have the officers give them to understand that they have to behave the same as citizens and taxpayers.

Council Proceedings.

The regular monthly meeting of Council was held last Monday evening. Messrs. Appleton, Jeffries, Kelly, McCue, Pearson and Poole were absent. The minutes of the last stated and the special meetings were approved.

The Finance committee reported an ordinance exempting the Bristol Iron and Steel Company from borough taxation for a period of ten years.

The Street committee reported that the iron drain pipe had been laid across Dorrance street and connection made with the ditch. The committee also reported the progress made in grading Race street and submitted a plan of the work. An ordinance was submitted granting permission to the Bristol Iron and Steel Company to construct, maintain and operate a narrow gauge railway track, across and upon Washington street, to connect with their property.

Police committee reported that nine arrests had been made during the month and that twenty-two knights of the road had been given shelter at the town hall.

Fire committee reported that a contract had been closed with the Gleason & Bailey Company to furnish an up-to-date chemical fire extinguishing apparatus for the sum of $1870, which was the lowest of three bids.

Committee on sanitation reported an agreement between the borough and William G. Albright for the collection of garbage.

On motion the report of the Finance committee was received and filed and upon suspension of the rules the ordinance exempting the Bristol Iron and Steel Company from taxation was passed.

The ordinance reported by the Street committee was passed in a similar manner.

On motion the lines of the Race street grading were approved according to the plans, although Councilman Flum interjected the remark that it would cost some of the people in that section more to wall up the embankments than the properties are worth.

On motion the Police committee's report was received and filed. The Fire committee's report was treated likewise.

The agreement with the garbage collector and his bond for $750 with John DeGroot and Serrill Douglass as sureties were approved.

Upon motion the unpaid duplicate of borough taxes was placed in the hands of the Finance committee with power to select a collector.

Councilman Callanan reported the bad condition of the driveway into No. 2's hose house; also that the roof of the stables of No. 1 company needed attention. The matter was referred to the Finance committee with power.

Knights at Allentown.

Martha Washington Chamber, No. 2, Knights of Friendship, attended the annual convention of the State body at Allentown on Tuesday. Thirty members of the local chamber left Bristol in full regalia on Tuesday morning and returned yesterday. The session was the greatest in point of numbers present in the history of the organization.

Hon. William H. Snowden made the address of welcome to the representatives, which was responded to by Grand Sir Knight Champion, Joseph King, of Norristown.

The parade of Tuesday was a great demonstration and was in every respect creditable to the organization. The parade was reviewed by competent judges. Martha Washington Chamber, of Bristol, was awarded the prize of $25 for having the most men in line from a distance.

The Bristol boys declared they had a splendid time and were royally treated. Those who went from here were:

WHERE IT REALLY RAINS.

Truthful Tales of the Heavy Sprinklings That Soak Kansas.

A reader in the east writes that there has been a western Kansas man back there telling them about the heavy rains in western Kansas. The reader says he is suspicious of the man and thinks that his story is a lie. He says he has always understood that little or no rain falls in the western part of the state, but that this western Kansas man is telling a story about ten inches of rain falling in half an hour and wants to know if there is any truth in the statement. We have not kept track of all the rains that have fallen in western Kansas and of course cannot say as to the particular fall of moisture to which the man from Kansas refers.

We might say, however, that if the impression prevails in the effete east that it never rains in western Kansas it is a serious error. It is true that there are spells of drought when for several months there will not be sufficient moisture fall to wet a 2 cent postage stamp, but when it gets ready to rain out there the bottom seems to fall out of the sky.

The story is told of a man who was driving over the divide north of Dodge City when one of the showers came up. He was riding a buckboard, which has a bottom made by fastening the cleats between the axles with spaces of half an inch between the cleats. The water fell so fast that it could not run through the bottom of the buckboard as fast as it fell. Rushing down the side of the divide, the water struck a barb wire fence and dammed up until the water ran over the wire of the fence. This was because the rain came so fast that it couldn't get through between the wires of the fence.

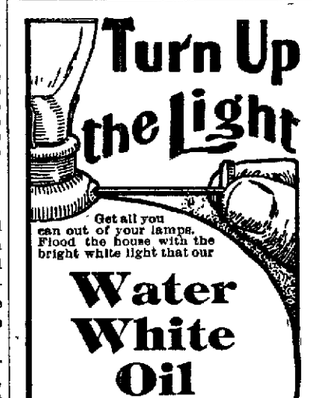

On the same trip the traveler says he saw a jack rabbit drown while it was jumping through the air. The same traveler declares that within half an hour the water was three feet deep on the ridge and falling faster than it could run on both sides of the hill We have supposed that possibly the traveler in his excitement might have exaggerated, but there are residents in Dodge City who stand ready to prove the truth of the story by showing the ridge where the buckboard stood during the rain and the place in the air where the jack rabbit was when it drowned.—Topeka Mail.

Heroism.

The most truly heroic thing may be the refusal to appear as a hero. To resist a temptation to make a display of energy, courage or whatever is likely to show itself conspicuously in that which is visible heroism to the world sometimes calls for the invisible employment of those very forces. It takes courage to be silent and "strength to sit still." Restraint and self control are in reality forms of high energy, physical and moral. At their best they constitute a heroism as noble as it is secret and invisible.

HE BOUGHT A FOREST

A YANKEE DEAL WITH A STRONG GOLD BRICK FLAVOR.

The Westerner Was Game, Though, and Had No Kick to Make Over the Transaction—A New England Village Election Trick.

There are fewer people in the farming districts of New England than there are in the west. This is one reason why fewer "gold bricks" are bought in the east. But if the "gold brick" dealer is in no hurry New England is his field. The New England mind moves slowly not because it is great, but because it lacks confidence in itself, but when it comes down on a proposition nothing can loosen its grip.

A New England man will look at the old shell game for two or three summers and whittle and say nothing. Then when he thinks he is not watched he will put up all his possessions on the seductive chance and lost of course. But this characteristic of pause in the New England mind is not always to be taken as an evidence of credulity. There is, in spite of seeming paradox, no more cunning individual than this same New England farmer, who worships methodically and who, on the surface, "keeps all the laws."

A western man went to Massachusetts last winter on a speculation. The statement, unattended by explanation, would warrant an expression of doubt. Western men do not go into New England to speculate as a cold proposition. In this case the western man had a whim to satisfy. His daughter, who had read "The Courtship of Miles Standish" until it was gospel truth to her mind, persuaded him to buy a farm in Massachusetts.

It was stipulated that the farm should have trees. They were to be pine and cedar and similar hardy growth, which the snows of winter would not affect. It is curious that a man accustomed to the practical life of the west should have a fancy of this sort, but there are streaks in the human mind which no philosophy can explain.

One old man in the Bay State who represents the third generation on the place heard that a western man was "looking about to buy." No one will ever know when this New Englander incubated the idea of selling the homestead. It might have been lurking for a quarter of a century. During one of the big snowfalls the western man visited, by arrangement, the farm. The owner had waited to make the appointment. Another evidence of the poky characteristic of the New Englander. But wait until you see the method in his lingering.

The western man arrived late in the day and after a hearty New England supper retired. On the following day he was piloted through the snow over the farm. Pines and cedars and everlasting growth were everywhere. Even in the acreage, where three generations had plowed and harvested, there were trees and shrubs. The westerner had never seen a farm like this. The old New Englander explained that the soil was so productive of evergreens that he had to postpone planting often in order to grub the underbrush.

There is nothing like backing up your bluff. The westerner, although accustomed to stiff games, was taken in by the saintly New Englander. That night the purchase money was paid by the westerner. He left quite early the following morning for New York, closed up the deal and started west. He was to have possession of the New England farm in May.

He came back in May with his wife and daughter and reached the "old homestead" in the evening. Only a keeper was on the premises. The former owner had moved out so that the new one might have possession of all at once. The following day the western household was out early to look over the place. There was no snow on the ground. The evergreens, the pines and cedars were everywhere, just as the westerner had told his wife and daughter. But the wife, a practical sort of woman, who hadn't much use for Longfellow, asked "pa" why the trees were in tubs and buckets.

Was the New England mind slow? The man who represented the third generation on this farm, having learned that your western farmer was on a sentimental purchase, bought up all the trees in boxes and tubs, such as you see in summer gardens and in barren places, and had them stacked away until a big snow dropped all over New England. Then they were planted about the old place, and the snow was packed about the boxes to hide them.

Your western man, who salted mines and sold them to eastern capitalists, thought he was smart. I am told by the man who related this transaction, and he is rated high, that when the western man saw that he had bought a "gold brick" he never squealed. He was too thoroughly western for that. He just said to his wife: "Well, the old New Englander didn't lie about it. He never said the trees were in the ground." And now "an old New England farm" is on the books of a real estate agent. In case of sale "immediate possession" is guaranteed.

The villagers of a New England town not far from the farm sold to the westerner held an election. One of those local issues came up that often distract a whole county.

A few miles out of town about 200 laborers were engaged. They had been in the county just long enough to entitle them to the franchise so dear to the newcomer. Two hundred votes will change the result of a village election.

The laborers went to their work before the polls opened. They started on their return by train an hour before the polls closed. When half way back, the engine came to a standstill. The engineer dropped sand and opened the valves, but the wheels of the engine went round like a windmill. The engine wouldn't budge.

The villagers, who had not enough votes to carry their ticket on account of the new vote that had been dumped, had greased the rails. The new vote did not reach the village until the polls were closed. The villagers of a sleepy New England town had beaten a corporation.—Chicago Tribune.

A Pipe Dream.

"Smoking in Holland," said a traveler, "is so common that it is impossible to tell one person from another in a room of smokers."

"How is any one who happens to be wanted picked out, then?" asked a listener.

"Oh, a waiter goes around with a pair of bellows and blows the smoke from before each face till he recognizes the person called for! Fact, gentlemen."—Swindon Advertiser.

Elephant Bones For Salt.

The fact that skeleton remnants of elephants are so rarely found in any part of Africa is explained by an explorer, who states that as soon as the bones have become brittle from climatic influences they are eaten in place of salt by various ruminant animals.

Kissing.

"Some say kissing is a sin. But if it was na lawful, lawyers would na allow it; if it was na holy, ministers would na do it; if it was na modest, maidens would na take it; if it was na plenty, puir folk would na get it."—Bobby Burns.

A woman says her husband is so fond of an argument that he won't eat anything that will agree with him.—Springfield News.

Make Themselves Hideous.

The natives both of Ruk and the neighboring group of the Mortlocks, in the Caroline islands, have the curious custom, remarked in the Visayas of the Philippines, the Peruvian Indians and the Taringa-Roroa aborigines of Easter island, of piercing the lower lobe of the ear and forcing it to grow downward in a huge, unsightly flap.

RODE ON AN AVALANCHE.

A Perilous Journey Made In Safety on a Log.

George D. Williamson tells a thrilling story of his experience in a snowslide in the montains of Hinsdale county.

Mr. Williamson and a companion had been to look at a mining claim in which they were interested and were returning along the trail when they came to a point at which there were evidences of a movement of the heavy mass of snow lying on the mountain side.

"I saw that it was liable to move again at any time," said Mr. Williamson, "and started back with the remark that it was as much as a man's life was worth to attempt to cross the snow that had poured across the trail. From where we stood to the bottom of the gulch was about 1,000 feet, and we could see that the movement of the snow had stopped about 50 feet below the trail in which we were standing. I thought that by going around the snow carefully we could escape and save ourselves a long trip. I began clambering down the rocks on the edge of the slide. When I reached a point near the end of the slide, I looked back to where my friend stood at a safe distance and called to him that it was all right. A big dead tree had been brought down by the slide and rested on about three feet of snow packed quite solid. The top of the tree projected about 20 feet beyond the end of the slide. Instead of going around the tree I sprang upon the trunk, intending to leap from it to the ground on the other side.

"The moment I touched the log I knew I was gone. Whether the slide started of its own weight or whether my weight started it I will never know, but in an instant I was flying down the mountain. As the log began to move I dropped and fell astride it, grasping a limb in front of me with both hands. I heard the scream of my friend as I began to move and then heard nothing more except the terrible roar of the avalanche behind me. There were no trees in the way, and the log went as straight as a die down the mountain side, fortunately for me keeping on top of the snow.

"I don't know what I thought. There was no time to do much thinking, and all my energies were devoted to the maintenance of my position. We passed some dead bushes, the broken twigs from which were dashed into my face, cutting the skin, and the wind almost stopped my breath. At the bottom of the narrow gulch the tree stopped for an instant, but before I could get off the pressure of the snow behind it started it again, and it shot up the side of the opposite hill with scarcely any diminution of force.

"Gradually the avalanche spent its energy, and when the log came to a standstill I was sitting on it holding the limb tightly more than 200 feet up the mountain side, while behind me the snow, timbers and rocks filled the gulch to the level of my position, forming a ridge fully 150 feet high.

"The whole thing was over in half a minute, and, except for the scratches on my face, I was unhurt. As I shook the snow off and looked around I saw my friend tearing down the mountain on the other side of the gulch with the expectation that he would find my mangled body under the debris. Needless to say, he was astonished when he heard of my remarkable ride on the back of death."

Some Prophecies Fulfilled.

Long before his name was known outside his native country Oliver Cromwell was making one of his rambling speeches in the house of commons. Lord Digby asked Hampton who he was, and Hampton replied, "If ever we should come to a breach with the king, that sloven will be the greatest man in England." Never was any prophecy more completely fulfilled than this.

Almost equally remarkable in its way was Disraeli's prophecy, "But a time will come when you will hear me," made when nothing appeared more unlikely than the brilliant series of triumphs which fulfilled it.

Another instance of a quickly fulfilled prophecy was furnished by Pope Pius VII when he was told of Napoleon's escape from Elba. "Don't worry about it," he said; "it is a storm that will be over in three months." The story of the Hundred Days proved his holiness to be right to a few hours.

A Little Late For an Inquest.

London coroners are sticklers for their rights. A box held at a railroad station recently, owing to the railroad officials having lost the way bill, was opened, though it was consigned to a Hamburg museum, and the body of a young woman and two skulls were found inside.

The young woman is a mummified Peruvian and the skulls are prehistoric, yet the coroner of the district insists on holding inquests on both mummy and skulls unless the museum people have them removed.
